World record by Albert Corty with 260 points high run

"After poor game on both sides - 54:31 after 9 innings with 4 nits each on both sides - the audience began to settle comfortably in their seats in anticipation of an endless game. That's when Corty gets the series. The balls go like clockwork, no mask, no placement error, no langholer - the referee counts 50, 100, 150, still nothing changes in the harmonious picture on the green cloth. 200, 248, 249, world record! But it goes on and on, to 260. Never-ending applause for Corty, who staggered exhausted to his seat after five-quarters of an hour's effort." (contemporary comment)
