In 1955, the intense disputes over association policy and the leadership of the UIFAB (Union Internationale des Fédérations d'Amateurs de Billard) affected the participation and organization of the European Championships. Although there were not two parallel European title competitions in Balkline 47/2 as there were in Free Game or Balkline 71/2, the fields of participants in 1955 (only Spaniards and Portuguese) and 1957 (no Dutch, Belgians, or Germans) were heavily influenced by boycotts.
